* Use small notes if too high.

As you skip, and trip, and glide a_long, Telling of a love that's staunch and strong, She'll cud_dle up to you and softly whis_per, "Are you pos_i_tive there's no_one el_se's sis_ter," Then you build some cas_tles in the air, and you tell her "there are none so fair" then you stroll off to a cos_ey chair, Locked in arms, 'mid the palms, to spoon—

Repeat then to Part I

That's when you want to tell that you love her sin - cere - ly

With - out her love this world would seem so cold and drear - y

Ask her if you can call and try to win her heart, She'll whis - per come of - ten mis - ter, I've loved you from the start.
